A MESSAGE FROM MR. WILLIAM A. O'NEIL CHAIRMAN OF THE IMLI GOVERNING BOARD

I am very pleased to extend my congratulations to this year's graduates on the successful completion of their course of studies at the IMO International Maritime Law Institute. The degree they are receiving exemplifies not only the diligence and dedication with which they have pursued the academic programme but also the excellence of the training received at this unique institution.

The majority of the world's fleet of some 46,000 cargo-carrying ships now operate safely, cleanly and efficiently within the sound regulatory framework built up over the years by the International Maritime Organization. But regulations alone do not prevent accidents from occurring. The real key to making improvements lies in the implementation of the regulations and standards. Maritime lawyers have the primary task of ensuring that new measures, codes and conventions are properly incorporated into national legal frameworks, and that the appropriate infrastructure and expertise for the requisite inspection, testing, verification and certification is in place.

It was for this reason that the Institute was established in Malta in October 1988 under the auspices of the IMO. To maintain a properly functioning legislative framework, it was recognized that each State would require qualified legal experts to deal with the adoption of treaties and to give advice as to which treaties should be adhered to; maritime advisers to show how to incorporate treaties into domestic law, as well as lawyers to interpret the treaties and the relevant domestic law provisions and, of course, judges to ensure that the law is correctly interpreted in line with the general international understanding.

IMLI is unique in that its course fosters excellence in the drafting, adoption and review of national law and legislation in accordance with international legal instruments on maritime safety, marine environment protection, maritime security, and related aspects of shipping and ports. Its success is borne out by its graduate statistics. There is a total of 274 nationals from 95 countries and territories who have graduated from the Institute. To date, IMLI graduates have held senior positions in government administrations worldwide and the global maritime industry ranging from Ministers of Justice, Attorneys General, Chief Justices, Ambassadors, Chief Executives and senior corporate managers. This year's graduates will undoubtedly join their predecessors in these career paths. As this year's graduates embark on the challenging task of making world shipping safer, more economical and secure, I wish them all the best.

IMLI - Nippon Foundation Joint Project for Advancement of a New Legal Order for the World's Oceans

Mr. Y. Sasakawa (President, Nippon Foundation) with Mr. M. Nagamitsu (Executive Director, Nippon Foundation) and the Nippon scholars for the Academic Year 2003/2004 on a visit to IMLI

The IMO International Maritime Law Institute (IMLI) and the Nippon Foundation established, during the Academic Year 2003/2004, the joint Project for Advancement of a New Legal Order for the World's Oceans.

The Project is the product of fruitful collaboration between the IMLI and the Nippon Foundation, and is made possible through the generous contribution of funds by the Nippon Foundation. IMLI and The Nippon Foundation intend through this Project to contribute to the promotion, adoption and effective implementation and enforcement of international maritime rules and standards, as well as to encourage a greater participation by developing States in the major international maritime law conventions and legal instruments, and in future developments in this regard.

The Project shall attain its purposes by the provision of scholarships funding for deserving candidate lawyers to carry out specialized studies in international maritime law within the Master of Laws Programme offered by IMLI. The Project shall also see the establishment of the Nippon Foundation Research Grant.

With the launching of the Project, nine candidates were awarded the Nippon Foundation Scholarship to take part in the LL.M. Programme at IMLI in the Academic year 2003/2004. These are: Mr Alamgir Khan (Bangladesh), Ms Marija Pospisil (Croatia), Mr Etueni Caucau (Fiji), Mr Takashi Arikawa (Japan), Mr Tajudeen Giwa (Nigeria), Mr Amos Kirio (Papua New Guinea), Ms Saowalak Jullamon (Thailand), Mr Igor Karaman (Ukraine), and Ms Chola Shapi (Zambia).

Mr. Yohei Sasakawa (President of The Nippon Foundation), accompanied by a high-level Delegation of Executives paid an official visit to IMLI on Friday 26th March 2004. Mr. Sasakawa was welcomed by Professor David Attard (Director IMLI) with whom he discussed the developments of the Project. Mr. Sasakawa, also met the thirty lawyers who form part of the IMLI Class of 2003/2004, and had a special meeting with the Nippon Scholars. During a special ceremony, Mr. Sasakawa unveiled a commemorative plaque that will attest to the commitment of both institutions to the progressive development and codification of international maritime law.

The Nippon Foundation's delegation supported IMLI's plan to attract Asian lawyers, and will be granting ten scholarships for the academic year 2004/2005.

The 'Sasakawa Prize for the Best Performing Nippon Foundation Scholar' will be presented for the first time during the 2004 Graduation Ceremony. This prize has been created as part of the Project, and will be awarded every year to the Nippon Scholar who has the best overall performance in the LL.M. Programme.
