

INTERNATIONAL MARITIME SECURITY LAW COURSE

The IMO International Maritime Law Institute (IMLI) wishes to bring to your attention that its Course on International Maritime Security Law will commence in February and conclude in April 2020.

The International Maritime Security Law Course covers the various critical modern-day challenges to the international rule of law at sea and the freedom of navigation which include maritime piracy and armed robbery, maritime terrorism, drug trafficking and migrant smuggling.

The course is highly recommended for the officials of Maritime Administrations, Navy, Coast Guard, Law Enforcement Agencies, prosecutors and other security agencies involved directly or indirectly in maritime security affairs. It is also beneficial for the professionals involved in maritime industry including lawyers, port officers, marine insurers, shipowners and operators.

FEBRUARY- APRIL 2020

IMO INTERNATIONAL MARITIME
LAW INSTITUTE, MALTA

Over 30 Years Serving the Rule of International Maritime Law

PROGRAMME

The International Maritime Security Law Course covers the various critical modern-day challenges to the international rule of law at sea and the freedom of navigation which include maritime piracy and armed robbery, maritime terrorism, drug trafficking and migrant smuggling.

The fluidity and complexity of the nature of these threats require a deep understanding of the law of the sea, maritime law, policies and regulations before responding to them. These newly-emerging and transformed threats are largely unregulated in the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea 1982, which has led to the adoption of various conventions and protocols.

The course addresses in detail the gravity of these threats and the existing international laws and State practices to deter the same. The course focuses on the current legal developments ensuring the safe navigation of ships, offshore installations and coastal security of maritime States. It also covers the contribution of international institutions and the role of regional cooperation in overcoming such threats.

The course offers participants the chance to meet like-minded professionals in an interactive academic atmosphere to reinforce their knowledge, skills and proficiency of international maritime security law, which are required to perform efficiently the responsibilities assigned to them as senior government officials and shipping executives.

It is anticipated that at the end of the course, participants will be equipped with theoretical and operational strategic-legal knowledge which will enable them to respond and/or advise the industry, maritime forces and other government departments on maritime security-related issues.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

The course is highly recommended for the officials of Maritime Administrations, Navy, Coast Guard, Law Enforcement Agencies, prosecutors and other security agencies involved directly or indirectly in maritime security affairs. It is also beneficial for the professionals involved in maritime industry including lawyers, port officers, marine insurers, shipowners and operators.

The course will be delivered at the IMO International Maritime Law Institute in Malta. At the end of the course a certificate of attendance will be issued.
