

IMLI TO COMMENCE ITS PROGRAMMES ONLINE

The Institute would like to bring to the attention of our readers that it remains committed to continue with its capacity-building activities and serve the needs of IMO and its Member States.

The Institute, under the leadership of its Director, has been constantly monitoring the COVID-19 pandemic developments and has adopted strict measures over the months to ensure the health and safety of students and staff. In this respect, the increasing rate of positive cases which has been seen throughout the world, has regrettably compelled IMLI to take the decision to commence on 12 October 2020 its programme of studies online. This decision has been taken in the light of the circumstances which are beyond the Institute's control and purely to safeguard the health of admitted students and staff.

The IMO-International Maritime Law Institute (IMLI)

The Institute will continue to monitor the COVID-19 developments and hopes that, if by December the global health situation improves, students will commence the second semester of studies in Malta.

The Director wishes to assure all concerned that this situation will in no respect prejudice the quality of training that distinguishes IMLI as a centre of excellence in the dissemination of knowledge in international maritime law.
