

IMLI COMMENCES ITS 28TH YEAR IN THE SERVICE OF THE RULE OF INTERNATIONAL MARITIME LAW

On 17 October, the IMO International Maritime Law Institute (IMLI) welcomed its 28th generation of students for the 2016-2017 academic year. In his welcome address, the Director of the Institute, Professor David Attard expressed delight in receiving students from all over the world, who expressed their ardent desire to study at IMLI and to take with them the newly acquired knowledge and skills for the benefit of their countries and the maritime community at large. He welcomed the presence of Belarus, Bosnia and Herzegovina, and Lesotho who for the first time recorded their respective participation in IMLI's programmes.

The Director reminded the students that what makes IMLI a unique institution of international maritime studies is its unique curriculum which addresses maritime law from an international perspective, the Institute's emphasis on enhancing maritime legislation drafting skills, and its very own students who for one academic year bring to the Institute cultural and legal diversity. He encouraged the Class to embrace this rare opportunity for both learning and networking during the course of the studies and beyond.
