THE FIRST IMLI/WMU M.PHIL. STUDENT COMMENCES HER STUDIES

Ms. Oyindamola Temitope Banjoko (Nigeria) became the first student to enroll into the joint Master of Philosophy (M.Phil.) programme in International Maritime Law and Ocean Policy launched by the International Maritime Law Institute (IMLI) and the World Maritime University (WMU), when she registered her participation on 18 September 2017.

Ms. Oyindamola Temitope Banjoko

Ms. Banjoko will spend the first year of the two-year programme (2017-2018) at WMU, Sweden where she will attend courses on ocean policy such as sustainability, governance and management. She will move to IMLI, Malta for the final year (2018-2019) to complete the programme. At IMLI, she will undertake courses in international maritime law, including the law of the sea, shipping law, marine environmental law, and maritime security law. Further, Ms. Banjoko will be required to undertake an independent research work (dissertation) on a topical issue relating to her study and relevant to the needs of her country.

It may be recalled that IMLI and WMU established the two-year M.Phil. programme in order to address the increasing threats to the oceans by a number of human activities and the lack of proper governance of the waters within and beyond the limits of national jurisdiction.

We congratulate Ms. Banjoko on her enrolment and wish her a successful academic sojourn at both WMU and IMLI.
