IMLI COMMENCES ITS 29TH ACADEMIC YEAR

The IMO International Maritime Law Institute (IMLI) welcomed its 29th generation of students for the 2017-2018 academic year on 16 October 2017.

Professor David Attard (Director, IMLI) Meeting the IMLI Class of 2017-2018

In his welcome address, the Director of the Institute, Professor David Attard expressed delight in receiving students from all over the world and welcoming them into an intensive but rewarding programme of the Institute.

Professor Attard informed the students that what makes IMLI a unique institution of international maritime studies is its distinctive curriculum which, among others, addresses maritime law from an international perspective and places emphasis on enhancing maritime legislation drafting skills of its students, the majority of whom are senior government officials from developing countries. Professor Attard noted that IMLI's uniqueness is also reflected in its very own students who for one academic year bring to the Institute cultural and legal diversity. He encouraged the students to embrace this rare opportunity for both learning and networking during the course of their studies and beyond. He advised them to adopt a culture of tolerance and respect for one another's views.

The IMLI Class of 2017-2018 taking the Oath of Allegiance to IMLI

Professor Attard welcomed the presence of students from Cambodia and Canada who are represented for the first time in the Institute's Master's programme. Following the welcoming address by the Director, the students introduced themselves.
