

IMLI 23rd PROGRAMME TO START ON 12 SEPTEMBER

The IMO International Maritime Law Institute (IMLI), which was established in 1989 under the auspices of the International Maritime Organization (IMO), is welcoming a new generation of thirty-seven lawyers from twenty-nine countries who will enrol in its 23rd annual Master of Laws (LL.M.) programme commencing on 12 September 2011.

To date, IMLI has opened its doors to almost 600 students hailing from over 120 States and land territories who form already a unique global network serving the rule of international maritime law. It is expected that the students of this academic year will also, upon completion of their studies, provide immediate and valuable contributions to the international legal community.

Professor David Attard (Director of IMLI), the Faculty and Staff would like to express their pleasure at having the new students at the Institute and wish them all the best in their academic endeavours.
