IMLI CELEBRATES INTERNATIONAL DAY FOR WOMEN IN MARITIME

The IMO International Maritime Law Institute joins the international maritime community to celebrate the International Day for Women in Maritime. This year's theme "Training-Visibility-Recognition: Supporting a barrier-free working environment" resonates with IMLI's mission in the field of education. The Institute mandated under its Statute in 1988 that 50 per cent of the places to its programmes be reserved for women candidates. This policy which was innovative at that time ensured that deserving women professionals have access to quality education and take their rightful place in the maritime industry.

To commemorate the day, the Institute prepared a short video which you can watch by clicking here.

Professor David Attard (Director, IMLI) in his message saluted all the women who have attended the Institute and who, through their work and achievements, have consolidated the Institute's reputation.
