IMLI TO WELCOME THE 38TH GENERATION OF MARITIME PROFESSIONALS

The IMO International Maritime Law Institute (IMLI) will welcome on 30 September 2026 the 38th generation of maritime professionals who pursue studies at the Institute for the academic year 2026-2027.

The newly admitted students will receive an overall orientation session on the day by the Members of Staff. On 1 October they will be officially introduced to IMLI by the Director of the Institute, Professor Dr. Norman A. Martínez Gutiérrez, who will also deliver lectures on Law of Contracts.

The Institute records with pride that 78 students from 48 States will receive quality training in the full spectrum of international maritime law within all the programmes offered at IMLI.

In line with its policy of reserving 50 per cent of the places for women candidates, 42 of the students are female professionals.

IMLI reaffirms its continued commitment to excellence in the dissemination of knowledge across the full spectrum of international maritime law, to enhancing maritime legal expertise, and to advancing the goals of the international maritime community.

The Institute looks forward to welcoming the new class and embarking with them on this important academic journey. IMLI is confident that the new students will build upon the achievements of their predecessors and uphold the values of excellence, dedication and professionalism that have long defined the IMLI community.

The Institute also expresses its sincere gratitude to all its donors and partners whose continued support and belief in IMLI's mission make it possible to advance its educational objectives and contribute to the nurturing of the maritime leaders of tomorrow.
